Dear ██████████

I write in connection with your request for information dated 5th November 2020 concerning drone use within Wiltshire Police.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Your request for information has now been considered and I am not obliged to supply the information you have requested in its' entirety.

You wrote:

- 1) That you list the date of Wiltshire Police's use of UAVs/drones in relation to protests or political demonstration type events during 2020, along with the name/type of event covered?
- 2) That you tell me if Wiltshire Police has any policy documents relating to the use of UAVS/drones at public/protest events. Please can I have a copy of the document?
- 3) Does Wiltshire Police have any procedure in place for members of the public to access data/images captured by its UAVs/drones? If so, can you tell me what that procedure is?

Our response:

Question 1

The only event this year of the type you request was at Salisbury and Porton Down on Saturday 3rd October (Animal Justice, Salisbury Animal Activism).

INVESTOR IN PEOPLE

Question 2

We have no policy document that is specifically designed for the use of drones/UAV's at public/protest events.

We do have Operational Manuals of how we operate in a Policing environment, but these would not be available due to the sensitive Police Tactics utilised in operations being revealed – disclosure would be exempt in respect of S24 National Security and S31 Law Enforcement under Freedom of Information Act 2000.

Civil Aviation Publication 722 is written and issued by the CAA which is guidance of how Unmanned Aerial Vehicles are to be used by 'Permission for Commercial Operations' operators and are guidelines that we have to adhere to. This is public document available to anyone via the CAA website and can be found at the following link :-

http://publicapps.caa.co.uk/docs/33/CAP722%20Edition8\(p\).pdf.pdf)

Question 3

Footage taken from drones/UAV's is – as with Body-Worn Camera footage – retained in our systems if it is of evidential value but automatically deleted after 31 days if not of evidential value. Members of the public can apply for any drone/UAV camera footage (as they can for BWC footage) but it would be subject to certain limitations and/or conditions.

The supply of any footage would have to be made as a separate request to Wiltshire Police.

Under an FOI request, consideration would need to be given to the necessary removal or redaction of any 3rd party images - with mass crowds this would likely be a very time-consuming exercise and might run into time-cost considerations.

Under Rights of Access, a member of the public may request footage but again, that is likely to contain 3rd party information which would not be available under DPA 2018/GDPR and would again require redaction and/or editing. Depending on the scope of this, any request would need to be considered as to whether it was a viable request or manifestly unreasonable.

Please Note :-

As you will be aware, disclosure under FOIA is a release to the public at large. Whilst not questioning the motives of the applicant, confirming or denying that any other information is held regarding the use of drones for covert purposes, would show criminals what the capacity, tactical abilities and capabilities of the force are, allowing them to target specific areas of the UK to conduct their criminal/terrorist activities. Confirming or denying the specific circumstances in which the police service may or may not deploy drones, would lead to an increase of harm to covert investigations and compromise law enforcement. This would be to the detriment of providing an efficient policing service and a failure in providing a duty of care to all members of the public.

The threat from terrorism cannot be ignored, and it is well established that police forces use covert tactics and surveillance to gain intelligence in order to counteract criminal behaviour. As such, it has been previously documented in the media that many terrorist incidents have been thwarted due to intelligence gained by these means.

Confirming or denying that Wiltshire Police hold any other information in relation to covert use of drones, or unmanned aerial devices, would limit operational capabilities as criminals/terrorists would gain a greater understanding of the police forces' methods and techniques, enabling them to take steps to counter them. It may also suggest the limitations of police capabilities in this area, which may further encourage criminal/terrorist activity by exposing potential vulnerabilities. This detrimental effect is increased if the request is made to several different law enforcement bodies. In addition to the local criminal fraternity now being better informed, those intent on organised crime throughout the UK, will be able to 'map' where the use of certain tactics are or are not deployed. This can be useful information to those committing crimes. It would have the likelihood of identifying location-specific operations which would ultimately compromise police tactics, operations and future prosecutions as criminals could counteract the measures used against them.

Any information identifying the focus of policing activity could be used to the advantage of terrorists or criminal organisations. Information that undermines the operational integrity of these activities will adversely affect public safety and have a negative impact on both national security and law enforcement.

Public Interest Test

Factors favouring Confirming or Denying for Section 24

Any further information, if held simply relates to national security and confirming or denying whether it is held would not actually harm it. The public are entitled to know what public funds are spent on and what security measures are in place, and by confirming or denying whether any other information regarding the covert use of drones is held, would lead to a better informed public.

Factors favouring Neither Confirming Nor Denying for Section 24

By confirming or denying whether any other information is held would render Security measures less effective. This would lead to the compromise of ongoing or future operations to protect the security or infra-structure of the UK and increase the risk of harm to the public.

Factors favouring Confirming or Denying for Section 31

Confirming or denying whether any other information is held regarding the covert use of drones would provide an insight into Wiltshire Police. This would enable the public to have a better understanding of the effectiveness of the police and about how the police gather intelligence. It would greatly assist in the quality and accuracy of public debate, which could otherwise be steeped in rumour and speculation. Where public funds are being spent, there is a public interest in accountability and justifying the use of public money.

Some information is already in the public domain regarding the police use of this type of specialist equipment and confirming or denying whether any other information is held would ensure transparency and accountability and enable the public to see what tactics are deployed by the Police Service to detect crime.

Factors against Confirming or Denying for Section 31

Confirming or denying that any other information is held regarding the covert use of drones for maritime/border surveillance would have the effect of compromising law enforcement tactics and would also hinder any future investigations. In addition, confirming or denying methods used to gather intelligence for an investigation would prejudice that investigation and any possible future proceedings.

It has been recorded that FOIA releases are monitored by criminals and terrorists and so to confirm or deny any other information is held concerning specialist covert tactics would lead to law enforcement being undermined. The Police Service is reliant upon all manner of techniques during operations and the public release of any modus operandi employed, if held, would prejudice the ability of the Police Service to conduct similar investigations.

By confirming or denying whether any other information is held in relation to the use of drones would hinder the prevention or detection of crime. Wiltshire Police would not wish to reveal what tactics may or may not have been used to gain intelligence as this would clearly undermine the law enforcement and investigative process. This would impact on police resources and more crime and terrorist incidents would be committed, placing individuals at risk. It can be argued that there are significant risks associated with providing information, if held, in relation to any aspect of investigations or of any nation's security arrangements so confirming or denying that any information is held, may reveal the relative vulnerability of what we may be trying to protect.

Balance test

The security of the country is of paramount importance and Wiltshire Police will not divulge whether any information is or is not held regarding the use of drones if to do so would place the safety of an individual at risk, undermine National Security or compromise law enforcement.

Whilst there is a public interest in the transparency of policing operations and providing assurance that Wiltshire Police is appropriately and effectively engaging with the threat posed by various groups or individuals, there is a very strong public interest in safeguarding the integrity of police investigations and all areas of operations carried out by police forces throughout the UK.

As much as there is public interest in knowing that policing activity is appropriate and balanced this will only be overridden in exceptional circumstances. The use of drones in any covert capacity is a sensitive issue that would reveal police tactics and therefore it is our opinion that for these issues the balancing test for confirming or denying whether any information is held regarding the use of drones is not made out.

However, this should not be taken as necessarily indicating that any information that would meet any future request exists or does not exist.

Section 17 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 requires the Wiltshire Police, when refusing to provide such information (because the information is exempt) to provide you the applicant with a notice which: (a) states that fact, (b) specifies the exemption in question and (c) states (if that would not otherwise be apparent) why the exemption applies.

The exemptions applicable to the information requested are :

Section 24	National Security
Section 31	Law Enforcement

In accordance with section 17 of the Act, this letter represents a Refusal Notice for this particular request.

I am satisfied that all the relevant information has been passed to me and been considered in the light of your request within the time constraints applicable under the legislation.

Wiltshire Police would like to thank you for the interest that you have shown in the Force.

Yours sincerely,

Nick Penny
